Deadline Extended for Starlight's 2020 Vincent Legacy Scholarship Applications

The Vincent Legacy Scholarship has provided many opportunities for Kansas City youth throughout the years, both in performing arts and other professional disciplines.

“Winning this scholarship and being a part of this program unlocked something in me.”

—Ve’Shawn Dixon, 2008 Vincent Legacy Scholar

“You’re getting into a family, and they’ll be there for you no matter what.”

—Amari Lewis, 2014 Vincent Legacy Scholar

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Now in its 15th year, Starlight’s Vincent Legacy Scholarship program continues to offer a unique opportunity to ethnically diverse middle school students in the Kansas City metro. Established in 2006 by community leaders Greg and Rebecca Reid, the scholarship is intended for students wishing to pursue professional training in the performing arts. To date, Starlight has awarded 40 Vincent Legacy Scholarships with a total value of $97,500. In an effort to accommodate more applicants, Starlight has decided to extend our 2020 Vincent Legacy Scholarship deadline to Friday, February 28.

Not only do scholarship winners receive financial aid for their performing arts training, but the students join a talented pool of former scholars and adult mentors whose mission is to guide and encourage the students as they advance in their careers. Students attend an annual welcome event and holiday reunion for scholars and their families, as well as receive an invitation to see some of Starlight’s Broadway shows throughout the summer.

2020 Vincent Legacy Scholarship application materials are available at kcstarlight.com/education, and Starlight encourages qualified students in grades 6, 7 and 8 to apply for this unique opportunity.

MORE

The deadline for 2020 Vincent Legacy Scholarship applications has been extended to Friday, February 28. In addition to meeting ethnic and financial criteria, students must show a passion for the performing arts, maintain a minimum GPA of 3.0 (B), attend school regularly with no unexcused absences, and demonstrate an interest in community service.

To apply, students must submit a completed application, a letter of recommendation (one page or less) from the student's parent or guardian describing the student's current performance interests and how the student would benefit from the scholarship, and one letter from the student describing his/her/their personal goals to gain new or improved skills in the performing arts.

All applications received by the new February 28 deadline will be reviewed, and a limited number of finalists will be invited to audition at Starlight on Saturday, March 28. In April, Starlight will award two or more scholarships, each paying for $2,500 of dance, vocal and/or acting training for the recipients. All eligibility requirements and application forms are available at www.kcstarlight.com/education. For additional information, email education@kcstarlight.com or call 816.997.1134.
