Jack White will play under the stars Monday, August 29, 2022, as part of the 2022 Capitol Federal Concert Series.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Jack White has announced the first dates of The Supply Chain Issues Tour with shows in North America, Europe and the United Kingdom, including a stop at Starlight Theatre Monday, August 29, 2022. The tour is White’s first headline shows in four years.

The tour will celebrate the upcoming release of two brand new Jack White albums: “FEAR OF THE DAWN” arrives everywhere via Third Man Records on April 8, 2022, and “ENTERING HEAVEN ALIVE” will follow on July 22, 2022. “FEAR OF THE DAWN” and “ENTERING HEAVEN ALIVE” are available for pre-order on vinyl and CD now. In addition to the standard black vinyl version of “FEAR OF THE DAWN,” five limited edition vinyl variants have been announced and are also available for pre-order. “FEAR OF THE DAWN” was first heralded by “Taking Me Back,” hailed by PASTE as “a return to White’s sweet spot” and joined by an official music video—directed by Jack White and co-directed by Lauren Dunn (Megan Thee Stallion, Kali Uchis)—streaming now on Jack White’s YouTube channel.

One of the most admired guitarists of the early 21st century, Jack White helped restore the popularity of punk-blues as the front man of the White Stripes. Although White's nasal voice and loose, fiery guitar delivery were mainstays of the White Stripes' early work, the group branched out as its reputation grew, building upon an initially minimalist sound with elements of metal, backwoods country, pop, and early rock & roll. White followed a similar evolution in his own career, and by the time the White Stripes celebrated the tenth anniversary of their debut album, the front man had already issued two pop-oriented records with the Raconteurs, starred in several films, collaborated with Electric Six, duetted with Alicia Keys, and produced records for a number of artists.

Tickets to Jack White can be purchased by calling the Starlight Theatre Ticket Office at (816) 363-7827, or by visiting kcstarlight.com. The show will begin at 8:00 p.m., and gates will open at 6:30 p.m.
