About Brandi Carlile

The tour continues another landmark year for Carlile, who is nominated for another five awards at the 64th Annual GRAMMY Awards: Record of the Year (“Right On Time”), Song of the Year

("Right On Time" and "A Beautiful Noise" performed by Carlie and Alicia Keys), Best Pop Solo Performance ("Right On Time") and Best American Roots Performance ("Same Devil" with Brandy Clark).

In recent months, following the release of her acclaimed #1 new album, "In These Silent Days," Carlie made her debut as the musical guest on NBC's "Saturday Night Live" (performing "Broken Horses" and "Right On Time"), returned to "The Ellen DeGeneres Show" to debut "You And Me On The Rock," and debuted "This Time Tomorrow" on "The Late Show with Stephen Colbert." Additionally, in November, Carlie performed Mitchell's legendary album "Blue" in its entirety at Carnegie Hall. Of the sold-out performance, Billboard proclaims, "an extraordinary concert...who better to take on this homage but Carlie, who has taken up Mitchell's still brightly burning torch, as one of the finest songwriters and singers of this era."

Produced by Dave Cobb and Shooter Jennings, "In These Silent Days" the record was inspired by the mining of Carlie's own history while writing last year's #1 New York Times Best Selling memoir, "Broken Horses" (Crown), and conceived of while she was quarantined at home with longtime collaborators and bandmates Tim and Phil Hanseroth. The ten songs chronicle acceptance, faith, loss and love and channel icons like David Bowie, Freddie Mercury, Elton John and Joni Mitchell—the latter two who, by some sort of cosmic alignment of the stars, have turned out to be close friends in addition to being her biggest heroes and inspirations.

Of the album, Variety praises, "Carlie effortlessly glides between octaves while, somehow, still sounding completely conversational—the everyday diva we didn't know we needed until she showed up at our door...a vocal tour de force," while Billboard asserts, "the emotion that Carlie projects is unbridled, unfettered joy in the face of hard times—and it's the exact boost of positivity that will make you want to listen again and again" and Vulture declares, "one of the biggest voices in the genre." The album also appeared on "Best of 2021" lists at NPR Music, Variety, Rolling Stone, Billboard, Entertainment Weekly, SPIN, USA Today, Stereogum, and many more.
